The 7 Other Planets in Our Solar System Will Form a Line as the Path of the Great American Eclipse of 2024 Crosses America

(End of the American Dream)—The Great American Eclipse of 2024 is truly going to be a once in a lifetime event. A few days ago, I wrote about how this eclipse will pass over 7 locations named “Ninevah” as it moves across our country. Since I wrote that article, I have also learned that the eclipse will go over a location in Texas named “Jonah” too. That is pretty incredible, but what I have to share with you today is even more amazing. Last week, I shared something that Rachel Baxter has discovered with my core subscribers. I wanted to get their feedback before I shared it with the general public. Like me, many of them were absolutely blown away by this discovery.

This information is so explosive, and I feel that it is important to try to get it out to as many people as possible before the eclipse arrives. So I can’t hold it back any longer.

Today, I am going to share with the whole world what I shared with my core subscribers last week...

Since the Great American Eclipse of 2017, we have been waiting for the Great American Eclipse of 2024, and now it is less than 2 months away. On April 8th, the Great American Eclipse of 2024 will complete the giant "X" over America that the Great American Eclipse of 2017 started. Amazingly, on that exact day the seven other planets in our solar system will "line up" in the sky. This is an extremely rare event, and it will never be seen again.

So why am I so concerned about what is going on in the heavens?

In Luke 21:25, Jesus specifically told us that we should watch for "signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars" just prior to His return.

And what I have to share with you today is absolutely amazing.

During the month of April, so many things are going to be happening in the heavens.

Let me start with things that are commonly known.

On April 4th, just 4 days before the Great American Eclipse of 2024, there will be a "planetary alignment" that will involve 4 planets...

The next planetary alignment takes place on April 4, 2024. It will feature four planets – Venus, Neptune, Saturn, and Mars. The planets will align in the morning sky. Venus, Saturn, and Mars will be visible to the naked eye, but you'll need a telescope or high-powered binoculars to see Neptune.

Half of the planets in our solar system will be aligned on that day, and that is pretty remarkable.

In addition, there will be 4 "planetary conjunctions" during the month of April.

On April 3rd, we will witness a conjunction of Venus and Neptune...

On April 3, at 10:53 GMT (06:53 a.m. ET), Venus (mag -3.8) will pass $0^{\circ}17'$ of Neptune (mag 8.0) in the constellation Pisces. Venus is visible with the naked eye, but Neptune requires a telescope or binoculars with good magnification. From the Northern Hemisphere, the conjunction will be difficult to see because the planets will be too close to the eastern horizon in the morning. From the Southern Hemisphere, the event will be slightly easier to see as the planets will be higher above the eastern horizon.

On April 10th, we will witness a conjunction of Mars and Saturn...

On April 10, at 18:46 GMT (2:46 p.m. ET), Mars (mag 1.2) will pass $0^{\circ}24'$ from Saturn (mag 1.1) in the constellation Aquarius. Both planets will be visible to the naked eye. Observers in the Southern Hemisphere will be able to see the planets high above the eastern horizon in the morning. In the Northern Hemisphere, the view will be poorer as the planets will be closer to the eastern horizon, rising just before sunrise.

On April 20th, we will witness a conjunction of Jupiter and Uranus...

On April 20, at 07:30 GMT (03:30 a.m. ET), Jupiter (mag -2.0) and Uranus (mag 5.8) will meet in the constellation Aries. The distance between the planets will be only $0^{\circ}31'$. Observe the planets in the evening, low above the western horizon, just after sunset. This conjunction will be better seen from the Northern Hemisphere; in the Southern Hemisphere, Jupiter and Uranus will be very low. Don't forget to bring binoculars to see Uranus — this planet is too faint for the naked eye, especially from light-polluted cities.

And on April 29th we will witness a conjunction of Mars and Neptune...

On April 29, at 04:01 GMT (12:01 a.m. ET), Mars (mag 1.1) will pass extremely close to Neptune (mag 7.9) in the constellation Pisces. The apparent distance between the planets will be only 2'14" — even the distance between Jupiter and Saturn during the Great Conjunction in 2020 was greater (6.1 arcminutes). The conjunction of Mars and Neptune will be much less spectacular, however, because Neptune is too faint to be visible to the naked eye. Grab a pair of binoculars or a telescope and look for the duo in the east in the morning. Observers in the Southern Hemisphere will have a better view.

But everything that I have just shared with you pales in comparison to a discovery that has been made by Rachel Baxter.

In addition to our planet, there are 7 other recognized planets in our solar system.

In January, all 7 of those planets, along with the sun and the moon, began to “line up” in the sky.

This is different from a “planetary alignment”. During a “planetary alignment”, several planets appear to be stacked behind one another as one looks out from the Earth.

But in this case, the other planets in our solar system are actually forming a straight line in the sky. This is how Rachel explained it in an email that she sent me...

Beginning in January, 2024 an alignment of the other 7 planets began to take shape and will continue through mid-May. Opposite the earth — when looking from Jerusalem to the East (which I believe is the way the Lord “keeps time” with His planets) all 7 recognized planets will line up in 3 constellations of Pisces, Aries and Taurus. They will look to be in a line (not what people commonly think of as a planetary alignment where the planets disappear into one bright light from our viewpoint.)

On April 8th, the sun, the moon and the other planets in our solar system will appear to form a straight line in the sky when looking out from Jerusalem toward the east. The following is from a graphic that Rachel sent to me...

I want to thank Rachel for allowing me to share this remarkable information with all of you.

Rachel asked ChatGPT how frequently the planets line up like this, and she was told that it would only happen once in 19 million years.

And when she included the sun and the moon, she was told that it would only happen once in 32 million years...

When I asked ChatGPT about a month ago to calculate the frequency that this line up of planets would happen, it responded with 1 in 19 million years. Because the moon and sun will also be aligned, I asked the frequency of this and it said 1 in 32 million years.

More recently, she asked ChatGPT 4.0 about this, and she was told that it was a "once in a lifetime spectacle"...

Today, I asked ChatGPT4.0 more detailed questions in different ways and got responses from "once in a lifetime spectacle" to more than one in a billion years. The safe answer is that this will not happen again in our lifetime! God's story in the stars is speaking and we ought to listen!

Interestingly, looking out from the perspective of the sun on April 8th several of the planets will actually form a "V"...

So what does all of this mean?

I don't know.

But I do believe that very unusual things are happening in the heavens right now.

If this occurs after sunset, the date of this phenomenon will be Rosh Chodesh, the first of Nissan, the first day of the first month (according to the Jewish calendar) . . . which also is a Rosh HaShana according to the months.

Let's put the timing into perspective. The calendar God gave us is not the Jewish calendar, but His calendar. The Sabbath day is not the Jewish Sabbath, it's God's Sabbath day He instituted in bereshit. The timing of this eclipse is extremely noteworthy. Nearly 3.5 years ago, during sukkot the vatican implemented the "global compact on education", which the pope informed the world that it was about a "new humanism". It's possible to expect the new king or the old pope to force a division of Yerushalayim upon the state of Israel which is the catalyst for the taking away of the daily sacrifice (TAMID SO"OR) which will begin the countdown of the final 1335 days prior to the return of Messiah. Yeah. Like the Blood Moons it means nothing. The end is not near.

According to Scripture, no one, not even the Son Himself, knows the day or the hour of the "end." BUT...Scripture over and over gives us signs of Christ's return and markers for recognizing when His return is imminent. If you don't know the Bible, you will be clueless to the signs. But in Matthew 24, Jesus points to the markers to identify the beginning of the end (called birth pains). The markers we are seeing now have been developing under cloak from the masses for decades, but they have become visible in mass the last four years, beginning with the pandemic and more specifically, the forcing of the clot shot in 2020. While you should read Matthew 24-25 yourself, some signs of the end of time include:

1. People claiming to be Jesus and gaining many followers
2. Increased occurrences of earthquakes
3. Many nations at war
4. Global persecution and execution of Christians
5. Blatant lawlessness
6. Love of one another and of Jesus will grow cold, and friends and family will betray one another
7. Global famine
8. Unrelenting attacks and turmoil in Israel, including a great earthquake
9. Unprecedented planetary behavior in the skies

There are other signs in various passages, but these are "the beginning" signs just in Matthew 24. The mechanism for the sign of a one world government (NWE) and a central control of who can buy or sell and capabilities of AI and even people like you claiming there is no "end" are all predicted as marks of the end (in other passages). Many of the Matthew 24 events have happened at low levels throughout history...but seeing them manifesting together and increasing rapidly...recognizing these as prophetic in Scripture...has never happened in recorded history. It takes willful blindness to deny the obvious. So for your own eternal destiny, you might want to rethink your claims.

If the first chariot of Zacharia, the red war chariot that taking peace from the earth arrived 9/11/2001 and the second chariot the black economic chariot, penny for the barely.exc arrived precisely seven years later to the day 9/11/2008 as Bernakey and Timothy Ghitner both recall in their books calling an emergency meeting the following day 9/12/2008. We now see the pattern and we see the white chariot launch the locus army 80k Muslims followed by millions marching from Turkey precisely on time seven years (one week) to the day 9/11/2015 later flooding the west. Now we see the final chariot the grey, and we see Charles proclamation go forth precisely seven years later 9/11/2022 and the only king of the house of Israel crowned in the generation of the fig tree since 1948. Now we must look to the middle of the week 3.5 year to 2025...since he comes in the middle of the week. A beautiful deadly angle of light no man. His star falls to the earth probably in a craft to deceive if possible even the very elect.

That's impossible for any of the Seals to be opened, because the crowning of the Messiah (Rev 5:13) has not occurred yet, and there will be no mistake when that occurs. The red horse is not war, it is judicial punishment.

I can't reconcile your claims with Scripture. It seems more like you are looking at world events to explain Scripture rather than studying Scripture to explain world events. You have it backwards.

Interesting theory, however, we as Christians need to be careful how much we read into all of this stars and planets lining up and associating anything biblical to it. yes, the Bible does talk about the stars and the heavens, as well as telling us to observe those things, but sometimes people take it too far and read too much into it. Just like the ones that will take a Hebrew verse and assign numbers to it and figure out because of the numbers that this thing or that thing was soon come to pass. Again, I think it's a stretch and we just need to be careful how we interpret those kind of things.
